

ANGEL ACTION · MEDICAL

Dehydration

Move the person to a cool place and let them sip water or an oral rehydration solution slowly. Severe dehydration — confusion, no urine output, rapid pulse — needs an ambulance.

Signs

- Thirst, dry mouth
- Dark yellow urine or no urine
- Headache, dizziness, fatigue
- Sunken eyes, dry skin
- Rapid pulse and breathing (severe)

What to do

1. Move to a cool place and rest.
2. Sip water or an oral rehydration solution slowly — small frequent sips are better than gulping.
3. Avoid caffeine, alcohol and sugary drinks.
4. For mild dehydration in children, give an oral rehydration solution (e.g. Hydralyte).
5. Call 000 if the person is confused, has stopped passing urine, has a rapid pulse, or is unconscious.
